Doings of the Gentry as Noticed by Women. Sufferers on the Different Car Lines in This Incidents That Show the Brazen Impudence and Wickedness of These Insulters of the Fair Sex. Whose Ways Are Shameless.

That the letters and complaints which have reached The Evening World are at all. ore than justifiable is easily ascertained by a trip on the "L" road near back to his room in the Morrisanis o clock. It takes no clever detective work to discover the insults which are offered girls and women. It is only necessary to be a woman to learn that

What Can a Woman Do?

What Can a Woman Do?

To be grossly insulted and to have one s feelings outraged is the fate of the woman victim of the "L" road. An Evening World woman reporter bent only on investigation was so insulted upon the Third avenue "L" last evening that the letters of the young women protesting to The World against the "L" musher were only an intimation of what these cowardly oglers of women and do. She must have received to means of transportation. He waits till traffic is heavy, when the cars are filled and then he begins work. The "L" road tormentor is the agent of many a woman's nervous collapse. Take the girls and women who are returning home at high from a day's work. Their nervous systems are in no condition to undergo this additional strain, and yet they are subjected to all the indignities which are intolerable to a decent woman.

One incident which occurred on the Toird avenue "L" recently to a World seporter who wished to ascertain the truth of the situation shows the perlinacity of these creatures, whose one object seems to be to torment women. truth of the situation shows the per thacity of these creatures, whose one object seems to be to torment women.

"A crusade should be publicly made exainst these violators of public decemy. It is really not safe," said a roman on the "L" last evening, "I have been annoyed much more on propous occasions than I have been to-night, and I wonder how such indecendes can be permitted. It is not only noon the "L" road that we suffer but the surface cars as well. To show the persistence of these 'mashers' I have only to state that the outgrowth their attentions is a more serious made than people realize. Unpopularity of Acting Captain O'Toole in Morrisania Station Explains Mysterious Noises and Fears He Will Not Be Promoted to Precinct Commander.

The mystery is out. It wasn't a ghost

Poor Acting Captain O'Toole can go back to his room in the Morrisania out fear that the spirit of dead Capt. Donohue may come prowling around his desk, where, living, the Captain "L" mashers methods are as open had kept a fortune in cash and stocks. The Evening World has ferreted it out. The story of yesterday of how station-house slammed to and opened untouched by human hands, of how Even Insult the Elderly.

CAPT. KEAR IS BETTER.

When mothers warn their daughters of the dangers of a city it has not been the "L" road and the street cars that they mentioned, and yet the necessary means of transportation are becoming a menace through the unchecked course of the mashers.

To a young girl the first realization of wrong may be learned through the low and dastardly methods of these audelous "mashers." To the older woman who understands their repulsive inshurations the situation is even more unendarable.

NOTSPOOKS, JUST Popular Lessons in Jewelry POLICE PRANKS. Taught by the Lambert Store.

Jewelry appeals to a delicate sense of appreciation. A few years has seen a great advance in the character of jewelry sold. New Yorkers of to-day eschew the defective and the imitative. They avoid every semblance of that vulgarity which is inseparable from jewelry which is too cheap. The multitude now demands what an exclusive few enjoyed a few years ago The LAMBERT STORE and the LAMBERT FACTORY, working together under one roof to accomplish the same end, have taught a great lesson. Good jewelry may be obtained without those extortions of profit formerly paid by the world of fashion. The LAMBERT STORE sells what the LAMBERT FACTORY makes. Both were recently enlarged. The stock is correspondingly larger than ever While at the store you are invited to visit the factory-to learn just why the highest class jewelry in the world is brought within the reach of moderate incomes.
